On May 25, 2017, at 5:30 p.m. at the Alhambra Inn (1 Tucker Avenue, Kingston 6), the Jamaica National Foundation (JN Foundation) partners with the University of the West Indies Press (UWI Press) to launch the timely book, Global Change and the Caribbean: Adaptation and Resilience, edited by David Barker, Duncan McGregor, Kevon Rhiney and Thera Edwards.

The authors in Global Change point out key challenges to regional and community vulnerability and explore ways to mitigate problems induced by climate change through local adaptation, resilience and social transformation. This work will interest the scholarly and general public alike, as well as a range of actors involved in regional planning and natural resource management, and public sector officials charged with security and social stability.

UWI Press general manager Dr Joseph B. Powell states: "With this new volume in a series of applied research, the UWI Press recognizes a unique coming together of corporate and academic worlds, each committed to safeguarding the environment of the small island developing states. Sponsoring and providing critically important scholarship like this volume is necessary to guide the discussion and planning process toward an informed change."

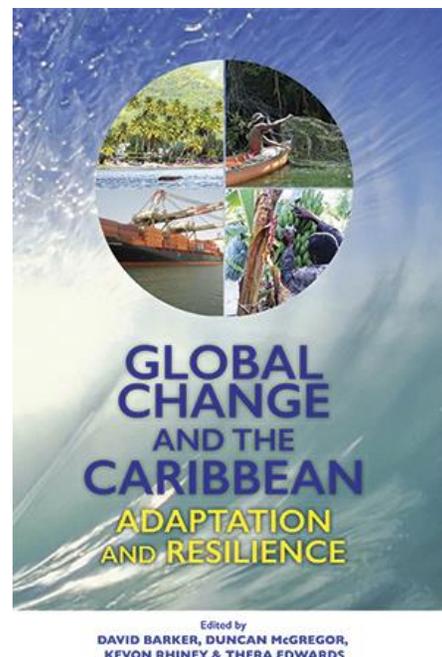

If you would like more information about this topic, or to schedule an interview, book signing or author tour with the editors, please call Donna Muirhead, marketing and sales manager at the University of the West Indies Press, at (876) 977-2659, 702-4081/2 or email donna.muirhead@uwimona.edu.jm khelee.williams@uwimona.edu.jm
